

5-1-2016

Foreward

Follow this and additional works at: <http://elibrary.law.psu.edu/arbitrationlawreview>

---

Recommended Citation

Foreward, 8 (2016).

This Front Matter is brought to you for free and open access by Penn State Law eLibrary. It has been accepted for inclusion in Arbitration Law Review by an authorized editor of Penn State Law eLibrary. For more information, please contact ram6023@psu.edu.

FOREWORD

The Yearbook on Arbitration and Mediation is an annual publication covering major developments and updates through the fields of domestic and international arbitration, mediation, and alternative dispute resolution. The Yearbook publishes professional articles that are edited by students at the Penn State University Dickinson School of Law. In addition to the professional articles, articles authored by student associate editors complement the professional articles.

Volume 8 features submissions from the Yearbook's 2016 symposium titled, “The Politics of Arbitration.” The 2016 symposium featured distinguished scholars and practitioners in the field of Alternative Dispute Resolution from every corner of the globe. These speakers addressed politically charged issues and the partisan ideologies reflected in arbitration in academia and practice throughout the world. This symposium topic provided a stimulating discussion and coincided with the 2016 United States presidential elections.

On behalf of the faculty advisors and the editorial staff, I sincerely hope that you enjoy Volume 8 of the Yearbook on Arbitration and Mediation.

Andrew C. Fillmore*
Editor-in-Chief
Yearbook on Arbitration and Mediation

---

* J.D./M.B.A 2016, Penn State Dickinson School of Law.