

Penn State International Law Review

---

Volume 7
Number 2 Dickinson Journal of International Law

---

Article 3

1989

Preface

Follow this and additional works at: <http://elibrary.law.psu.edu/psilr>

Part of the International Law Commons

---

Recommended Citation

(1989) "Preface," Penn State International Law Review: Vol. 7: No. 2, Article 3.
Available at: <http://elibrary.law.psu.edu/psilr/vol7/iss2/3>

This Front Matter is brought to you for free and open access by Penn State Law eLibrary. It has been accepted for inclusion in Penn State International Law Review by an authorized administrator of Penn State Law eLibrary. For more information, please contact ram6023@psu.edu.

Preface

This year's Winter issue offers an exceptional variety of articles and comments in keeping with the Journal's goal to provide an informative and enjoyable periodical. The staff is pleased to present three articles, as well as three comments.

In an award-winning article, James O. Moermond, III, explores international protection of intellectual property rights. Next, Jeffrey P. Greenbaum compares and contrasts the European Commission's Amended Proposal for a Council Regulation on the Control of Concentrations between Undertakings with the American Hart-Scott-Rodino Antitrust Improvements Act of 1976 and analyzes them in light of hostile tender offers. The third article, written by Massimo Agostini, focuses on the lack of uniformity among the American states in the imposition of taxes upon multinational corporations.

In the first comment, Peter L. Tracey, addresses international advertising and its concomitant caveats. Christopher J. Neumann examines the detention of criminal suspects in Japan and the resulting human rights problems. Finally, Steven C. Sherman analyzes the conflict between the recent Sudanese Constitutions and the Shari'a Law of Islam.

Carrie Ann Stevens
Editor-in-Chief

